THE HISTORIC VOYAGE OF THE AQUILA

by Clete Delvaux

Green Bay enjoys celebrating—no matter what the occasion. One hundred sixty one years ago, plans were underway by Green Bay Mayor H.E. Eastman and his committee to celebrate a momentous occasion. The celebration centered on a 59-ton sternwheeler steamship, marking the completion of the Fox and Wisconsin River Improvement that united the Great Lakes with the Mississippi River. On June 16, 1856, there were rumors that the steamship had already passed through the Kaukauna locks and neared

De Pere. There was no time to lose. Last-minute plans for this celebration quickly got underway.¹

The steamship was the Aquila. Charles H. and William J. Green of Green Bay purchased the two-year-old ship in Pittsburg in 1856 to transport goods and passengers on Northeastern Wisconsin's waterways.

The Aquila's voyage to Green Bay took it down the Ohio and up the Mississippi to the Wisconsin River, through the Portage Canal into the upper Fox River to Lake Winnebago where it finally descended the 170-foot-drop of the Lower Fox River. It was the first ship to navigate the entire Fox-Wisconsin waterway. What a boon for the future of Green Bay! It already had a waterway to ship its goods to the East Coast via the Great Lakes and the Erie Canal. Now it would have a waterway to ship its goods to the West—to St. Louis, New Orleans and other western river ports. Certainly, this called for a great celebration!

Mayor Eastman and his committee raced to De Pere, just in time to board the Aquila as it passed through the last set of locks before reaching Green Bay. A large delegation of dignitaries from Neenah, Menasha, Appleton, Grand Chute and Kaukauna, as well as the Menasha Brass Band, were already aboard. Citizens lined the shore and welcomed her in a most enthusiastic manner with loud cheering, music and blowing of steam whistles.

On its way to Green Bay, the Aquila passed the home of the Hon. M.L. Martin, the father and architect of this great system of locks and dams. Banners and flags decorated the grounds of Hazelwood and the ship whistle blew a salute as it passed.²

The steamship began its triumphant passage into Green Bay where, on both sides of the Fox River, "every dock, warehouse, and lumber pile . . . was crowded with a living mass of crazy humanity." At the old abandoned Fort Howard, caretaker Major Ephraim Shaylor fired a salute to the Aquila from one of the old fort cannons. Accompanied by thundering and prolonged cheering, it pulled into the East River docks of Haywood and Goodell and Whitney at the foot of Jefferson Street where it was received by a delegation of Green Bay's leading citizens, the Germania Brass Band, the Germania Fire Co. and members of the German Turner Society.

Nathan Goodell, "the perennial parade marshal of his day," led the procession south on Jefferson Street to the Astor Hotel for refreshments. It then returned north on Washington Street to the United States Hotel. "Here the parade broke up, the dignitaries took their places on stage, and the speechmaking began." M.L. Martin was acknowledged for his efforts on the Fox-Wisconsin Project.³

After its day of glory, the Aquila began the mundane job of shipping goods and passengers along the Fox River and on Lake Winnebago. "The People Line of river steamers, the Aquila and Appleton Belle, are rapidly gaining friends and supporters on the upper end of the route. Never have we seen so many travelers in this direction as are brought in by these fine boats. The perfect regularity of their trips, their superior accommodations, the gentlemanly conduct of their officers and the beautiful and inviting scenery along the entire route between this city and Oshkosh and Fond Du Lac, and the towns on the upper Fox River surprises and delights all who now visit us."⁴

For all appearances, the stalwart Aquila had a bright future. Unfortunately, this was not to be the case. An article in the Green Bay Advocate describes her sinking.

"Mishap to the Aquila – We regret to state that one of the favorite Green Bay boats, the Aquila, was sunk during the heavy blow last Monday at Long Point, Lake Winnebago. She had a large number of passengers on board, all of whom came off safely. She will be raised at once and put upon the route again in better shape than ever. Being originally built for river navigation solely, no especial attention was paid to making her proof against heavy weather, and the fastenings of her guards gave way. With these made secure, there is no more seaworthy boat on the river or lake. One or the other boats belonging to the same line will take her place meanwhile."⁵

By July 16, the Aquila was in Green Bay receiving important and substantial repairs and expected to be in good running order within a few days.⁶

In the spring of 1859, R. Schettler advertised the Aquila for sale along with the Ajax and Buffalo. By February of 1860, Wm. B. Ogden, of Peshtigo, purchased the Aquila and planned to take the machinery out of her and remodel the hull into a barge. That same month, Mr. Sorensen, an experienced boatbuilder working for Mr. D.M. Loy, was

MESSAGE FROM THE DIRECTOR

The Brown County Historical Society plays a unique and vital role in Brown County and, every year since its founding in 1899, it has faithfully sought to fulfill this crucial role while meeting the changing needs of our community.

The Historical Society provides a broad spectrum of educational programs that inform and connect people in meaningful ways to the social, architectural and cultural heritage of our community. In September, we hired a full-time program manager for the first time in our history. We made the decision based on the need to increase marketing and update school and Scout programs. Several new programs are now in place, and we will continue to create meaningful ways to share history.

In 2016, we welcomed over 800 individuals to our annual "If Tombstones Could Talk" cemetery programs, created two special cemetery programs for bus tours and, in partnership with the Green Bay Area Public School District system, we piloted and offered curriculum-based cemetery programs for school children. We are grateful to Myrna Dickinson and her team of researchers who dig deep to follow obscure leads to investigate past community members and create stories about their lives. Actors effectively bring these stories to life. We are exceedingly grateful to everyone who participates in bringing these outstanding programs to the public. We could not do it without you. We have excellent walks planned for this year!

Preservation issues remain a major commitment. Since 1988, we have given 120 Preservation Awards to homes, businesses and individuals in Brown County. We initiated a preservation strategy to save the historic Red Chapel located in Allouez Cemetery, and continue working to save this irreplaceable building from demolition.

Your dedication and support allows the Historical Society to expand its efforts to preserve and share our stories, and inspire a love of history in current and future generations. I look forward to a year of new ideas and initiatives.

Please get involved and share your talent, ideas and suggestions to help us grow.

Sincerely,

Christine Dunbar

BCHS' CAPITAL CAMPAIGN UPDATE

The Brown County Historical Society preserves the past, but its future is in your hands.

We continue to make progress on our capital campaign goal of $1.6 million. Meeting this goal will provide the crucial support needed to ensure the long-term viability of Hazelwood Historic House and Voyageur Magazine. We are indebted to the campaign committees who have raised approximately $500,000 in cash and pledges and to our generous donors.

We have an exciting opportunity to raise funds through a gift challenge from the 1923 Fund. In 2016, the 1923 Fund generously donated $15,000 to the Capital Campaign. In addition, the 1923 Fund pledged two additional gifts of $15,000 in 2017 and 2018, but with a matching challenge. To receive the $15,000 matching gift each year, the Society must raise $15,000 in individual gifts of $250 or less to show community support for the Capital Campaign.

The 2017 amount must be raised by June 1, 2017. Thanks to the generous response from our membership, we have raised $6,500 to date. With your help, we can make this goal. Please send your donation to the Brown County History Society.

BCHS BOARD UPDATES —

CLASS OF 2017-2018-2019

MARY EISENREICH
GREEN BAY

Now retired from the Ashwaubenon School District where she taught music for 29 years, primarily in the Middle School, Mary also directed the musicals at AHS for 21 years. Today she is a performer with the Heritage Players as well as in the Allouez Village Band.

With degrees in Vocal, Instrumental and General Music K-12 from the UW-Oshkosh and the University of Northern Colorado, Mary continues to teach and has several adult students in voice and guitar. She sings at weddings, funerals and parties.

Mary loves to can pickles, salsa, dilly beans and sauerkraut; she loves to read and to write music. Mary belongs to the BCHS (previous board member 2010-2014) and the Ashwaubenon Historical Society, and is a member of the Mac Dowell Club. Mary has performed both on- and offstage for St. Norbert Summer Music Theater, Community Theatre and the Best Christmas Pageant Ever. Mary's ambition is to write a musical now that she is retired.

KIMBERLEE GAST
DE PERE

Kimberlee was born in small town Hilbert, Wisconsin, raised in Kaukauna, and now resides in downtown De Pere. She started her career as a hair stylist in 2008, but began her path towards entrepreneurship in 2012 when she opened her own salon, KSerá Salon.

Kimberlee has a passion that sees the beauty in things and joy in bringing it out. She recently became certified as a DreamBuilder coach, so she can help others follow their dreams as well. She believes everything has a story. She loves antiques and historic real estate, specifically older buildings with a lot of charm left in them. In 2016, Kim purchased the Steckart and Falck Double Block Building in which her salon resides. She is excited to be a part of this building's story and is currently restoring its four upper apartments, originally built in 1888.

Kimberlee feels very blessed in where she is in life. She looks forward to sharing her experiences, as well as inspiring and helping others achieve their goals. If asked, Kim will tell you, "Whatever will be, be you."

SHERRI VADALA
DE PERE

Hi, my name is Sherri Vadala. I currently live in a Queen Anne Victorian home in the historic district of De Pere. We moved to this area from Little Rock, Arkansas, a little over a year ago. We have enjoyed becoming Packer fans and attended many games. I also love gardening and am enjoying the different plants now available in the Northeast! I always have had a passion for history and was struck by the beauty of this area and the historical nature of the homes in the area.

Professionally, I owned my own gourmet food business for the last 13 years and recently sold the company. Prior to that endeavor, I was the bookkeeper and accountant for a major statewide magazine as well as major account representative for a large corporate marketing company.

I look forward to working with everyone on the board as well as interacting with others who are passionate about the preservation and historic importance in the area.

CASEY ZAKOWSKI
GREEN BAY

After teaching Social Studies at Green Bay Southwest High School for 29 years, I retired in June 2016. I also coached Varsity basketball for 31 years in the Green Bay area. I am an avid reader of U.S. history, especially the Civil War, and have visited seven battle sites. My wife of 33 years, Mary, and I hope to move to the Williamsburg/Yorktown area where I can continue my pursuit of studying Colonial and Civil War history. We have four children — our oldest, Joseph, lives in Nashville; our twins, Thomas lives in Green Bay and Abigail in Florida; and our youngest, Clare, is a freshman at UW-Madison.

2017 ANNUAL AWARDS DINNER AND MEETING

Brown County Historical Society members and guest gathered at the Hyatt Regency/KI Convention Center on Wednesday, Feb. 22, to celebrate the previous year's progress and accomplishments.

President Mark Bartels started the evening by introducing the Society's new and current board members. In addition, he thanked departing treasurer Dennis Wojahn for his nine years of dedicated service to the Society, who then reported on the Society's finances. Following Wojahn, Cliff Wall, chair of the Capital Campaign Committee, reported on its progress. Wall gave a special thank you to the Winston Group for their hard work and dedication as consultants for the Capital Campaign, and encouraged members to donate and "keep this organization alive and well for my grandchildren." President Bartels closed the business portion by thanking staff members Chris Dunbar, Kent Crain and Brooke Uhl along with Professor David Voelker, editor of the Voyageur Magazine, for their dedication.

Mary Jane Herber presented the Local History Award of Merit to Don Kraft, acknowledging his service to the Brown County Historical Society and the community of Green Bay. Kraft stated, "When I reflect on the distinguished list of previous winners over the years, I am truly humbled and honored. Thank you to everyone who makes serving on the Society's committees and projects such an enjoyable and enriching experience."

The 2016 Historic Preservation Awards were presented to:

- Gather on Broadway, 139 North Broadway, Green Bay; Tommy and Jyll Everman accepting.
- Leonardo da Vinci School for Gifted Learners, 139 South Monroe Ave, Green Bay; Tammy Van Dyke and Kim Pahlow accepting.
- Pete's Garage, 142 North Broadway, Green Bay. (Recipients unable to be present)

Barb Beaver addressed the attendees about the fundraising event with Daddy D's on September 15. For every ticket sold, the Society receives $5 in proceeds. The theme for the Daddy D's production is "Golden Oldies."

building a steamer exclusively for the freighting business between Green Bay and Lake Winnebago and its tributaries, and had purchased the engines of the Aquila for this new steamer, The Elwood.⁷

Exactly what happened to the Aquila after this is unknown, but John D. Lawe recalls in 1927, “The old steamer Aquila . . ., after her days of usefulness were over, was hauled out on the banks of the East River and, stripped of her machinery and boilers, peacefully rotted away, the scene of many piratical exploits carried out on her decks by the boys of the neighborhood.”⁸

The six-year-old Aquila may have ended its days very near the spot of its triumphant first journey.

Launching BCCHS' Digital Archive Project!

Our Mission - To create a digital collection of historical images and documents covering all aspects of the history of Brown County that will be easily available to and accessible by historians and history enthusiasts.

Millions of historic images and documents reside in museums, libraries and other archives across the country. But there are many millions more in photo albums, shopping bags and shoeboxes sitting on bookshelves, tucked away in closets, or collecting dust in attics in our own homes. A huge depository of historical information, these items are, sadly, too often discarded and lost forever. Our mission is to save as many of these gems as possible!

SPOTLIGHT ON OUR NEIGHBORS —

ANA PARTNERS WITH BCHS TO CREATE WALKING TOUR OF ASTOR NEIGHBORHOOD

by Deby Dehn

"If Homes Could Talk" will be an ongoing project in partnership with the Astor Neighborhood Association and the Brown County Historical Society to document the social history of the Astor Neighborhood. Placed on the National Register of Historic Places in 1980, the Astor District includes some of Green Bay's most elegant high-style homes and interesting historic sites. The project will include walking tours throughout the 25-block Astor Historic District bordered by Mason, Van Buren and Grignon streets and the east bank of the Fox River.

The concept is to collect and present local history and historical anecdotes through a collaborative activity in which several neighborhood residents will be able to volunteer their homes to be a part of the tour. They then will provide a location for written signs and graphics to be placed in front of their homes, telling stories and offering information from the recent or not-so-recent past. These descriptive signs will be on display for passers-by to read and learn from as they walk along the tour route. Workshops on how to research the history of homes will be provided for interested residents. In the future, the ANA hopes to develop a downloadable app for cellphones that will include the stories and maps that will provide an on-demand experience for visitors to our district. (Look for additional information as it becomes available on our Facebook page.)

Profits from this year's ANA wine tasting will be used to develop these tours and fulfill our mission:

The mission of the Astor Neighborhood Association is to maintain the integrity, vitality and diversity of the Astor community through the protection and preservation of its history, neighborhoods and architecture.
